

To my little buddies,

Well Class A...I am missing you loads and loads. It is so strange not getting up every morning to drive to school to see your happy little heads and I bet you are finding that a little bit strange too. I know you will be missing your friends and all the adults that work in our class but just remember that things will not always be like this. Everything will get better and in time, we will be able to get back to the routine that we like most.

I love hearing from you, so keep getting someone at home to send through photos and videos to keep me up-to-date with what you are getting up to. Thankfully the weather has been lovely so we have lots of chances to get outside. Do just this!

I sent home lots of work for you to do and I know that if you keep going with that you'll make me a very proud teacher. The best thing you can do for me is a little bit every day. That means, that when you come back to school you won't have forgotten any of the super stuff that we have already learnt.

I cant wait to see you all again back in St.Brigid's but until then you need to keep safe and stay at home to look after all those important people that live in your house. I have to keep all my important people safe too!

If you ever need me or want to say hello, tell mammy or daddy to send me a message. I'll be waiting!

Keep safe kiddos.

From your biggest fan....Mrs McIlroy
